A Baden letter in The Musical World (London; says: "The principal feature at the eighth subscription concert was J. Resenhain's second symphony in F minor. It was the second time the admirable work -not yet published-was performed here, and the success, even greater than on the first occasion, actually surpassed that achieved by the D major symphony of Johannes Brahms. Herr Rosenhain is a composer of fine feeling, and a perfect master of form. Though imbued rith classical models, he pursues a path of his own, and has given us a composition which may take its place man given us a composition which may take its place among the best of its kind. The movement which pleased most was the first, the allegro risolute, the second part of which, diverging altegether from the usual track, is exceedingly effective. The andantine is not so original. The scherze, with its fugued second theme, is charming. The finale gradually rises till it culminates in a contrapuntal chorale. Wherever this symphony is performed, it is sure of a favorable reception."

"THE PRINCESS." BY AMATEURS.

A dramatic performance by amateurs was given yesterday afternoon in the Madison Square Theare in aid of the fund for erecting a pedestal for the Bartholdi Statue. The performance will be repeated this afternoon and to-morrow afternoon. The production of an act from the dramatized version, by Professor Shields, of Tennyson's "Princess" was the special feature of the performance. It was preceded by a three-act play, "The Old Love and the New," written by Frank Harvey. The cast was as follows:

Sir Edward Malvern. Alexander T. Mason.

"The Princess" was dressed and acted with much spirit and good effect. It was warmly applauded, and the floral tributes were abundant. The singing of several of Tennyson's songs, "Blow, bugles, blow," "Sweet and low," " Rest, rest, sleep and rest," and "Tears, idle tears," by members of the Mendelssohn Glee Club behind the scenes, aided the performance. The Princess, Mrs. James Brown Potter, was seen as the curtain rose sitting on a throne, wearing a sleeveless, creamy colored robe and a student's cap. Lady Blanche, Miss Van Auken, sat at a desk at her right; she wore a quaint scarlet and salmon costume and a student's cap. The entrance of the Prince. Cyril and Florian, and the dialogues that ensued, gave Mrs. Potter a chance for the spirited decamation of Tennyson's woman's rights sentiments. The three men were dressed in long white robes, touching three men were dressed in long white robes, touching the ground, with yellow and crimson hoods. The entrance of the fifteen "sweet girl graduates," chanting a Latin hyme, and wearing gowns of crushed strawberry or canary over white, and student cape, was very pretty. Their drill and evolutions, under the leadership of Lady Psyche, provoked much laughter. The scene ended with marriage of the Prince and Princess, which was made more imposing by the entrance of a numeer of people in the costumes worn at the Vanderbilt ball. Among the latter were Robert Houe, Mr. Gurnee, Mr. Beckwith, Miss Aideo Lawrence, Miss Soward, Mrs. Pirson, Mrs. Walsh, Mrs. Vail and Miss Rutherfurd. The cast was a follows: cast was as follows :

REPUBLICANS IN THIS CITY.

PROPOSAL TO REORGANIZE THE PARTY. MEETING OF THE COMMITTEE APPOINTED BY THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE-TALKS WITH ITS MEM-

The committee appointed by the Republican Central Committee last week to report to it a plan to reorganize the party in this city, met at the house of its chairman, Edward Mitchell, No. 45 West Fifty-fifth-st., last night. There were present, besides the chairman, Henry J. Scudder, Theodore W. Dwight, William Dowd, Solon B. Smith, Lloyd Aspinwall, Charles S. Spencer, Elliott F. Shepard, William H. Townley and James R. Marvin. Mr. Smith was made secretary, and he read the letters received from the absent members. All sent letters, excepting George Jones, who was absent from the city, and John D. Lawson, who was at home with a sick wife.

Chauncey M. Depew wrote that he heartily favored the movement, and regretted that a business engagement had rendered his absence from the city necessary. Hugh J. Hastings favored the movement and was sorry that he could not be present. Joseph Hart was also kept away by a business engagement. John J. O'Brien, the chairman of the Central Committee, was absent in Albany. Frederick Kuhne wrote that a personal engagement rendered it impossible for him to at-The following letter was the only one received that discussed a plan of reorganization:

DEAR SIR: Until this afternoon I had expected to attend the meeting this evening; but to my regret another engagement interferes. I shall hope for better fortune at your subsequent meetings, and shall be glad to co-operate in any way in my power to secure one harmonious and earnest organization of the Republican party in this city. monitous and earnest organization party in this city, party in this city,

The way to do this, in my judgment, is to give to Republicans the right of self-government. That they do not enjoy it here at present is the reason for the general discontent new officially recognized by the appointment discontent now officially recognized by the appointment of this committee.

The ideal organization would be one in which every Republican voter could cast his ballot for the selection of candidates for local offices and of delegates to State Conventions, and the voice of the majority in the party thus fairly ascertained should make the ticket. Whetaer this Primary Election system would work well in a great city may perhaps be doubted by many practical politicians.

Any plan that may be preferred should, in my opinion,

Any plan that may be preferred should, in my opinion, rest upon two cardinal principles:

(1) Every resident of the District who voted for the last Republican Presidential ticket should be entitled to a voice. If we are to have a great, united party, eapable of success and in the apprix to achieve it, that should be our only test of partisan orthodexy.

(2.) No man should be asked for any pledge whatever as to how he will vote in the tuture. The very best elements in the Republican party—those that have given it its success and its glory—are precisely those that would refuse to the themselves up by such a pledge. The way to the them to a ticket is to give every man a fair chance for his equal voice in making it, and let every man see that it is the mejority that rules. Where that plan prevails the Republican party is rarely distracted by either and never demoralized by its occasional defeats.

Very respectfully.

The evening was occupied in an informal discus sion of the subject of reorganization. All those present were agreed that there was need of such a movement, and that the present time was the most opportune to begin it. Mr. Mitchell said that so far as the XXIst Assembly District organization

Mr. Dowd said that he had no doubt of the success of the movement. Henry J. Scudder expressed himself as satisfied that this was a gouine movement in the interest of party reform. Smith said that he had no doubt that any plan that the committee might agree upon would be adopted by the Republican Central Com-mittee; otherwise the organization would stand in a very bad light before the public.

WEDDINGS YESTERDAY.

The man was Walter Witherbee, cousin of the groom. The ushers were Lispenard Stewart, T. J. Oakley Rhinelander, G. H. Mr. Mitchell said that so far as the XXIst Assembly District organization was concerned any Republican could join it who would take the trouble to attend a meeting and sign the roll. Yet he was willing to go to almost any length to make the plan of the organization acceptable to all members of the party. If that were done and the machine men, so-called, still retained control, then it would only be because the other members of the party neglected their duty. An organization was needed, and the party could not succeed without one.

Professor Dwight said that he hesitated at first to attend the meeting, but from what had been said by those present and the spirit manifested. He felt confident that there was an intention to reform the party in the city. It was a good sign when all were willing to acknowledge that there was need of such a movement. If it was carried out in the right spirit, he had no doubt of the future success of the Republican party. Mr. Dowd, Mr. Sendder and others spoke in a general way on the subject, when Colonel Charles S. Spencer submitted a resolution for the appointent of a sub-committee at many and the relivance of the machine of the sub-committee at some convenient time and place. NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

MAHONE'S DOMINATION. VIOLATING THE CIVIL SERVICE LAW AND ATTACK ING A REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.] WASHINGTON, April 25 .- If the statement made to a Tribune correspondent to-day by ex-Representative Dezendorf, of Virginia, is correct, it is apparent that Senator Mahone has forgotten some of the provisions of the Civil Service law. In substance Mr. Dezendorf's statement was as fellows:

"In Norfolk County there are 2,200 Republican roters and 156 Democratic Readjuster voters some time ago Jacob E. Reid, chairman of the Republican County Committee, issued a call to the townships to elect delegates, on April 9, to a county convention to be held on April 14 for the purpose of nominating candidates for county officers. Mahone got wind of this and telegraphed to Norfolk that the call must be revoked and the convention postponed. Several days later Reid called the County Committee together a second time and laid before them a letter from Mahone, in which the Boss' demanded that a new call should be issued providing for the election of Republican and Read juster delegates to a 'joint convention' to nominate county officers; this demand being coupled with threat that in case of refusal every member of the committee who was in the Government service should lose his place. "The members of the committee who were not the others obeyed the 'boss.' Reid is a clerk in the Custom House and, of course, he had to obey. The Republican township meetings were held under the original call, and delegates chosen to the county convention. That convention assembled on April 14 and nominated a full ticket for county officers. Every township was represented and the vacancies in the County Committee were filled. John Lesner, who has been sheriff for the last ten years and whose performance of the duties has given universal satisfaction, was renominated by acclamation. I was unanimously nominated for county treasurer. Mahone immediately summoned to Petersburg Reid, Rue, the postmaster of Norfolk, several of the foremen in the Navy-Yard, and other Federal officeholders, and after a conference it was decided that he should go to Nortolk in person He was there last Monday night and a 'public meeting was held to which admission was granted to such as held tickets issued by Mahone's trusted friends. The meeting was composed wholly of Democratic Readjusters and Government office holders and employes, some of whom claim to be Republicans. Postmaster Rue Collector Bowden and foremen from the Navy-Yard were prominent in the affair. About 200 person were present. Boss Mahone talked to them for more than two hours. He declared that the ticket nominated by the Republican Convention must be defeated at all hazards; that it could be done if the men in charge of the Post Office, the Custom House and the Navy-Yard and their subordinates would put their shoulders to the wheel and their hands in their pockets, and give their strength and money to the cause; that if the Republican ticket should be elected it would be a reflection upon the National Administration, which had cherished and encouraged the Readjuster movement; that any man holding a Government place, and who proved lukewarm or inefficient would lose it.

"I was not present at the meeting, but have my information from perfectly trustworthy persons who were there. They told me that considerable enthusiasm and earnestness were manifested, as an evidence of which it was unanimously agreed that for the purpose of raising funds to defeat the Republican ticket each Federal officeholder and clerk and each Navy-Yard foreman shall be assessed and shall pay 2 per cent of his yearly salary, while each workman in the Navy-Yard and Custom House shall contribute one day's pay for the same purpose. In order to prove that he meant business, the 'boss procured the discharge of five colored men who were employed as laborers in the Custom House and Navy-Yard, because they had expressed a preference for the Republican ticket. You look surprised at this, but I tell you this country has never before been cursed with so relentless and erbitrary a ' boss' as is William Mahone. He has established a perfect reign of terror among Federal officeholders throughout the entire State of Virginia. No matter how faithful and efficient an officer may be, he must obey the 'boss' in all things or goes his official head. This is true as well of clerks aborers. He rules every with a rod of iron. Collector Bowden or Postmaster Rue would no sooner hesitate to obey an order from Mahone than he would an order from his superior officer-Secretary Folger or Postmaster-General Gresham. As for Varney, the navai constructor at the Norfolk Navy-Yard, he is one of Mahone's most pliant tools. He is grossly incompetent and inefficient, but as ho is 'solid with Maone, he thinks he has nothing to fear. He has spent about $100,000 in 'repairs' on the Pinta, a small vessel which was ordered to be equipped for Alaskan service, and now she is not fit to go. A distinguished officer of the Navy-a man who has een thirty years' service and who knows all about ships-told me recently that he could go to Philadelphia or New-York and buy a better vessel than the Pinta, fully equipped and provisioned for a voyage, for less than half the sum that has been spent on that vessel for repairs under Varney's inmpetent supervision."

When is the election to be held?" "On May 24. The Mahone clique will hold a onvention and nominate a ticket on April 39. The egular Democrats have not yet made nomination Mahone's 'strikers' declare that they will defeat the Republican ticket if they have to pay $5 for every vote they need. They have already begun to try to buy up leaders among the colored voters. To one they offered $100 if he would stay out of the Republican Convention, but he refused the offer." There are several provisions in the Civil Service law which might be studied with profit, not only by Senator Mahone, but by Postmuster Rue, Collector Bowden, Navy Constructor Varney and other United States officers at Norfolk, before they go too United States officers at Norfolk, before they go too far with the political assessment scheme. One of these provisions is that no person in the public service is under any jobligations to contribute to any political fund or to render any political service; nor will any person "be removed or otherwise prejudiced for refusing to do so." The same law makes it a misdemeanor, punishable with fine or imprisonment, or both, for any "Senator, executive, judicical, military or naval officer, clerk or employe" to "solicit or receive, or be in any manner concerned in soliciting or receiving, directly or indirectly," any political "assessment, subscription or contribution." It is also made a misdemeanor, punishable with fine or imprisonment, for any officer or employe before mentioned, to "promote, degrade or discharge, or in any manner change the official rank or compensation of any other officer or employe, or promise or threaten to do so, for giving or withbolding or neglecting" to make or pay any assessment, subscription or contribution for any political purpose. Section 14 prohibits the payment by any person in the service of the United States of "any money or other valuable thing" for "the promotion of any political purpose. prohibits the payment by any person in the service of the United States of "any money or other valuable thing" for "the promotion of any political object whatever" to any other person in the service of the United States—even if that person be a Senator or Representative. A violation of this section also is punishable with fine or imprisonment, or both.

section also is punishable with fine or imprisonment, or both.

A Republican representative was asked to-day if he thought the Norfolk case constituted an offence under the law. He replied that he thought not, because six months have not yet elapsed since the law was passed. A like transaction aubsequent to July 16 would in his opinion rander the offender liable to punishment. This Congressman's opinion does not agree, however, with that of one prominent member of President Arthur's Administration, who holds that in enacting the law Congress and Executive declared, established and sanctioned a new policy in regard to the Civil Service; and, therefore, that the spirit of the enactment should now govern the administration of that service, so far as practicable. It may be that Postmaster-General Gressiam cable. It may be that Postmaster-General Gresham takes that view of the case. Assuming that he does, no one would be greatly surprised to find that General Gresham's reported remark about the weight of General Chalmers's influence respecting appointments would bear a broad construction.

THE NEXT SPEAKERSHIP. THE RIVALRY BETWEEN MESSRS, BLACKBURN AND

causing trouble in Kentucky politics, for both gentlemen have warm adherents. It is understo from a trustworthy source that prominent friends of Mr. Carlisle have agreed with equally influential friends of Mr. Blackburn, that an effort shall be made, when the collective Democratic wisdom of Kentucky is assembled in State Convention next month, to reconcile existing differences between the rival candidates, and to secure the voluntary withdrawal from the field of one of them. It is further understood that the friends of Carlisle and Blackburn respectively have agreed that their man shall abide by the decision of the State Convention. When Congress adjourned it was understood that Mr. Blackburn had expressed a willingness to leave the matter to the Kentucky Representatives, and to withdraw from the race if a majority of them preretred Mr. Carlisle. From what was known of the preferences of the other Kentucky Representatives at that time, Mr. Blackburn's offer was a perfectly safe one for him to make; and it seems rather probable that unless the views of the Congressmen have undergone a change, it will be equally safe for him to leave the matter to the arbitrament of the dale. to leave the matter to the arbitrament of the dele-gates to the State Convention. Mr. Carlisle's friends, however, are exceedingly confident that he is the choice of a majority of the Kentucky Demo-

WHAT CONSTITUTES CLEANED RICE. Washington, April 25 .- Secretary Folger to-day decided the appeal of F. W. Simmons & Co. from the imposition of duties by the Collector of the Port of New-York upon the article known to brewers as granulated rice. This article consists of kernels or grains of "cleaned" rice broken into fragments. The designation "cleaned" is that of the present Tariff law. The Secretary holds that granulated rice does not come under the designation of rice "cleaned" within the meaning of the present tariff; that it is not governed by the similitude clause of the tariff and is liable to duty only at 20 per cent ad valorem as an article manufactured in whole or

THE CHICAGO TEA INSPECTORSHIP. Washington, April 25 .- No appointment has yet been made by the Secretary of the Treasury of a Tea Inspector for the city of Chicago, under the provisions of the bill passed at the last session of Congress entitled "An act to prevent the importation of adulterated and spurious teas." Secretary Folger said to-day that the statements which have been recently published to the effect that efforts have been made to secure the appointment of a man from New-York City as tea inspector at Chicago were entirely without foundation. He had not, he said, been approached by any merchant of New-York City, or by the representative of any such merchant, with reference to this appointment, nor had he consulted with any person from the State in the matter. In selecting a tea inspector for Chicago he would, he said, be governed by the recommendations of the customs officers in that city. The latest information be had received from there was to the effect that much difficulty had been experi-enced in finding a resident of the city properly qualified for the place who was willing to accept appointment.

THE HILL INVESTIGATION.

Washington, April 25 .- The Secretary of the Treasury has not filled the vacancy caused by the esignation of Mr. Robinson from the Hill Investigating Committee; hence nothing was done to-day. The Maniy & Cooper Manufacturing Company has decided not to press its charges against Mr. Hill, because in his recent answer he placed upon the Secretary of the Treasury the responsibility of not investigating the company's charges in regard to the contract for fire shutters for the Government building at Cincinnati.

PROTESTING AGAINST A REMOVAL.

Washington, April 25.-Professor Silliman, of Yale College, is in Washington to protest against the removal of Professor Peter Collier, chemist of the Department of Agriculture. The reason advanced for Professor Collier's removal is his belief in the possibility of making sorghum sugar with proit, in which opinion he and Dr. Loring are understood to differ. Yale scientists are said to share Professor Collier's opinion and they will endeavor to keep him in his place.

Mr. James Park, jr., well known as a steel and from manufacturer, of Pittaburg, Penn., died on the 21st of April, leaving an estate said to be worth three million dollars. He also left policies of insurance on his life amounting to three hundred thousand dollars. Of these, policies for fifty thousand dollars were issued by the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

When he returned home from his recent visit to this country the editor of The London Sportsman is said to have had this interview with some friends: "Did you make many specifies when you were in America;" they asked him. "Yes," was the reply, "I was frequently called on to respond." "And what did you say for the most part!" "Thank you. I don't mind if I do."
